

Global Workshops with Partners in Guatemala!

Spanish Immersion Program

Travel to Guatemala for Mid-Winter Break 2012!

Who Middle School Students in Seattle and Guatemala who love Spanish, who care about the future and who want to improve the planet!

What Students meet weekly to improve their Spanish language skills, learn photography and digital media skills and build the first ANIA garden project in the USA! From spring through fall, we will plant, care for and harvest the garden on Queen Anne, and document our work in Spanish and through photography and multimedia production.

Sharing our work with our Guatemalan partners over the internet and building friendships, we will start raising funds in the fall to travel and meet our new friends who will be building the first ANIA garden in Guatemala!

Where The Language Link on Queen Anne, and the Queen Anne Pea Patch and then Lake Atitlán, Guatemala, in February 2012!

When Four sessions enable students to participate at their own level of commitment.

Global Workshops bring together all of the 21st Century Learning Skills into one fun and engaging program:
